ON THE COVER

The Masonic Stamp Club of New York Lounge at the 34th ASIDA National Postage Stamp Show held in the New York Coliseum on November 18, 19, 20 and 21 was a huge success.

Many members from out of town stopped by to renew old acquaintances. Distinguished philatelic journalists, dealers, and other luminaries from the philatelic world took time to spend a few pleasant minutes in our lounge.

Brothers Wettach, Deutsch, Drigian, Yarry, Boudreau, Kane, and Reggel assisted the club at the lounge, unfortunately all were not in attendance when the photo was taken.

The Masonic Stamp Club of New York was organized in 1934 for the purpose of encouraging research and study in Masonic Philately, and to establish bonds of good fellowship among Masons who are stamp collectors. The need for the organization has proved itself through the years with its ever-increasing membership and the formation of other Masonic stamp clubs in the United States.

The Story of a Masonic Cover

By George Wettach

About a year before my Lodge, Fidelity #113 of Ridgewood, New Jersey, was to observe its centennial in 1971, a special committee was formed to coordinate the various aspects of the event. The Senior Warden was chairman of the committee as the centennial observance would occur in his year as Worshipped Master.

The chairman was approached with the suggestion that a special cover be issued to commemorate the event with a postage meter slogan embodying the Masonic emblem. I was certain that this had never been done before and tried to convince him that the sale of such covers would raise some funds for the Lodge which could be applied to the expenses of the centennial observance. He was doubtful (not being a collector) but when assured that the venture would be underwritten to the extent that it would not cost the Lodge a cent, he immediately made me a member of the committee in charge of covers.

Given the "go ahead", it was necessary to implement the idea. Areas to be covered included an estimate of the quantity of covers needed, a cachet picturing the Temple, design of the postage meter slogan, advance publicity notices about the cover, estimated cost, etc.

The Fidelity Lodge Trestleboard was mailed each month by the printer who used a postage meter machine. (Postage was six cents then.) The first step was to learn the model number of the machine in order to get a slogan die that would fit it. This done, the next step was to design an appropriate slogan. The final design consisted of three lines with the Masonic emblem in the center. The top and bottom lines were slightly curved and with a little imagination the overall slogan looked like an all-seeing eye. The wording was

Fidelity Lodge #113 F.&A.M.
Ridgewood (Emblem) New Jersey
Constituted January 27, 1871
Pitney Bowes produced a nice meter slogan die based on the rough drawing so we were on our way.

A neighbor, Wor. Bro. Bartley Aisenbrey, Past Master No. 227 of Hamilton — Wallis Lodge of Paterson, NJ, had for years been producing his own Christmas cards, usually illustrated by ink drawings of historic churches. When approached, he readily agreed to do a drawing of the Temple for the cachet of the cover. His drawing was reduced photographically to fit the cover, leaving room for the meter slogan.

The matter of how many to issue and how much to charge came up. Based on advance orders, printing costs, postage at six cents each, etc., it was decided to have 3,000 covers printed to be sold at three for one dollar plus S.A.S.E. Good quality envelopes were ordered for this purpose.

Advance publicity notices describing the covers and their cost were sent to all U.S. philatelic publications and stamp columnists. In addition, publicity was sent to just about every Grand Lodge listed in the Directory of Lodges with the request that they publicize it in their publications. An imprint of the meter slogan on a card was sent with the publicity release.

In the interesting feedback from the publicity was the information from the Grand Lodge of South Dakota that they had already used the Square and Compass in a meter slogan. It was a bit of a let down to learn that ours was not a "first" as had been claimed. An enclosure sent to purchasers informed them of this fact and noted that we were first in New Jersey. A couple of foreign meter slogans showed a Masonic emblem as part of an ornate design. My education continued.

Finally the big day came. I arranged to get to work late that day and went to the printer to supervise the imprinting of the postage meter slogan. All went well.

Next came the mailing of them in the accumulated envelopes. A few of those who ordered covers forgot (?) the S.A.S.E. Some sent envelopes the same size as the covers.
Nevertheless soon all were on their way. It seemed that it was all over but occasional orders trickled in for over a year.

Based on advance orders we did not imprint all the covers with the meter slogan but we did sell about 2000 covers. In round numbers the Lodge made a profit of about $500 on receipts of about $700. This went a long way to help defray part of the other centennial expenses.

A number of the persons ordering the covers sent interesting and complimentary comments with their orders. There was also a temporary misunderstanding at a high level which was disturbing at the time.

One order for several covers came from Wor. Bruno Guglielmi in San Remo, Italy. He liked the covers and ordered some more. His letters were very friendly and led my wife and me to schedule a stop in San Remo on a Saturday night later that year when we would be traveling in Europe by car for a couple of weeks with our son and daughter. Brother Guglielmi was apprised of the fact and back came a reply asking us to phone him as soon as we arrived at our hotel. He gave both his home and business phone numbers.

We had sent Bro. Bruno a copy of our itinerary so he knew all our hotels, etc. At our hotel in Lugano, Switzerland and again in Florence we found cheery little notes from him stating that he was looking forward to our forthcoming meeting. This was indicative of his thoughtfulness as we were to find out.

It was a hot summer day when we drove from Florence to San Remo with many stops for refreshing lemon soda. We arrived rather late and phoned Bruno as requested. Because of the hour and our weariness we made a date for the next morning.

The next morning he and his lovely wife, Solange, appeared at our hotel. He asked us what we would like to see. I requested Villa Grock, about 20 Kilometers away, which had been the home of a distant cousin whose elderly widow still lived there. We also visited his Lodge room and had dinner at a restaurant up in the hills followed by ice cream in his apartment where we looked at Masonic covers issued by his Italian Masonic Stamp Club. He told my children to call him Uncle Bruno because, he said, “your father is my brother”. It is difficult to compress a wonderful day into a few sentences. It is interesting to think that it all came about because of the centennial cover of my Lodge.

Because of the large quantity issued we had some left over. These were eventually sold to Bro. Ed Walsh who was a dealer in Masonic philatelic items and subsequently wound up in England when his estate was settled. I was later shown an advertisement that illustrated the cover. In 1975 I saw one in a glass case in the museum of the Grand Lodge in London.

About eight years after the issuance of the cover I wondered what had happened to the meter slogan cut. I stopped in at the printer’s and asked about it. When he couldn’t find it I suggested looking in the postage meter machine. There it was, after all those years, covered with dust, paper fibers and dried ink.

I am sure that anyone who issues a special cover has the challenge and fun of creating it, but how many have a memorable day in the Italian Riviera as a bonus?
When first class postage rates kept going up, Fidelity Lodge No. 113, F. & A.M. of Ridgewood, New Jersey decided to send its Trestleboards by bulk rate mail. They asked for, and were issued, Permit No. 113 which had been available. This may be the only case where the Lodge number and the Permit number are the same. Please let us know of other similar cases of matching numbers.

JAMES HOBAN—MASTER BUILDER

Sir Knight Marvin E. Fowler
Right Eminent Grand Generalissimo, Grand Encampment of Knights Templar, U.S.A.

James Hoban was born at Tullamore, near Callan, in County Kilkenny, Ireland, the son of Edward and Martha (Bayne) Hoban. The exact date of his birth is unknown but is presumed to have been in 1762. He was educated in the schools of the Dublin Society and studied drawing and architecture under Thomas Ivory.

Photograph of a wax image of Hoban executed by an unknown French Artist about 1789.

As a very young man, James achieved some distinction in his profession in Dublin. He participated in the construction of several buildings in that city, including the Royal Exchange, the Bank of Glendower, Newcomen and Company, and the Customs House.

He emigrated to Philadelphia in 1785, and on May 25 of that year advertised in Philadelphia that "Any gentleman who wishes to build in an elegant style, may hear of a person properly calculated for that purpose, who can execute the Joining and Carpenter's business in the modern taste." Soon afterwards, he went to Charleston, South Carolina, where he built several public buildings in Charleston and designed the State House at Columbia, completed in 1791. That Capitol stood until it was burned in 1865.

His success as an outstanding architect and builder in South Carolina led to his being recommended to George Washington. Hoban met with Washington in the then temporary capital city of Philadelphia to discuss the development of the Federal City in the recently established District of Columbia.

Hoban moved to the new Federal City in 1792 where he spent the remaining almost 40 years of his life and where he was largely instrumental in safely guiding the Federal City through its troublous formative period. His professional life was a stormy one, but his strong convictions and fierce determination enabled him to successfully combat official opposition, and the nation is indebted to him for the magnificent proportions of our Capitol and Executive Mansion.

There was a national contest to find the best design for the Executive Mansion or "President's Palace" as it was then being called. The three District Commissioners serving as judges announced the winner: 30-year-old James Hoban. The prize for the winning design was $500.00 or a gold medal. Hoban chose the medal.

Hoban's design (following) was for a simple rectangular box-shaped, three-story mansion, 168 feet long.
85½ feet wide, and 60 feet high. Porticoes, or porches, with four marble columns highlighted the north and south entrances. Hoban's elevation of the White House is preserved by the Maryland Historical Society. The plan was acquired by Jefferson and is with his drawings in the Coolidge collection deposited with the Massachusetts Historical Society.

Hoban received a contract to supervise the construction at a salary of 300 guineas a year. Construction of the mansion began in 1792, with the cornerstone being laid on October 13 of that year, near the 300th anniversary of Columbus' discovery of the new world. The nearest Masonic lodge, Lodge No. 9 in Georgetown, under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Maryland (now Potomac Lodge No. 5 of the District of Columbia), was invited to lay the cornerstone. The architect of the mansion, James Hoban, participated in the ceremony.

Hoban also collaborated with William Thornton in constructing the U.S. Capitol, and in 1797 was named superintendent of the executive buildings to be erected, including the Treasury and the State, War and Navy buildings.

Hoban married Susanna Sewell in 1799, and this happy couple were blessed with ten children.

In 1799, he was captain of the Washington Artillery and was known thereafter as "Captain" through his connection with this militia organization. When the Federal City was incorporated in 1802, he was elected to the city council and remained a member until his death. He was a quick-tempered though a generous man and had a rather exalted opinion of his own merits.

Hoban was a devout Catholic and an ardent Freemason. Bishop John Carroll, named the first Roman Catholic bishop in the United States, stated in a 1794 letter that the prohibitory edicts of the church with regard to Freemasonry would not be enforced in his diocese.

We do not know when or where Hoban received his first three degrees in Masonry, but under his leadership a group of Irish Catholics and Scotch Presbyterians organized a lodge in the Federal City, known as Federal Lodge No. 15 under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, which was chartered on September 12, 1793, just six days before participating in the laying of the cornerstone of the U.S. Capitol. James Hoban was the Charter Master of this new Lodge which became Federal Lodge No. 1 of the Grand Lodge of the District of Columbia when that Grand Lodge was formed in 1811. He participated in the laying of the cornerstone of the U.S. Capitol as Master of his Lodge. After serving as Master, Hoban became Treasurer of the Lodge.

At an Encampment of a Royal Arch Chapter held in the Lodge Room No. 15 at their chamber in the City of Washington, January 2, 1796, Brother Hoban was duly ballotted upon and unanimously accepted. He received the different degrees of Super Excellent Royal Arch Masonry that same evening. At a subsequent meeting of this same Royal Arch Chapter held on February 4, 1797, James Hoban was duly installed and was invested with the robes of High Priesthood. He served his Chapter as High Priest for the year 1797.

During his forty years of residence in the Federal City, James Hoban grew rich, prominent, influential, and esteemed. After a long, honorable, and distinguished career, he passed away on December 8, 1831. He was buried temporarily in St.
JAMES HOBN

Patrick’s graveyard — afterwards the site of the Masonic Temple at Ninth and F Streets, Northwest. His remains now rest in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Thus ended the career and life of an Irish immigrant to the United States — one who played a most important role in the days of the founding of our Nation’s Capitol and one who has left a priceless legacy to his adopted nation through the genius of his skill as a master builder.

Sir Knight Fowler is Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the District of Columbia, also past presiding officer of the three Grand York Rite Bodies in that Jurisdiction. He is currently Grand Secretary of the Grand Chapter, and Grand Recorder of the Grand Council in the District, and since 1953 he has served as Provincial Grand Master of the Royal Order of Scotland in the U.S.A.

He lives at 1984 White Oaks Drive, Alexandria, Virginia 22306.

Our March 1982 MASONIC PHILATELIST included an illustration stating the American Flag was made by a Mason's wife, Betsy Ross. Bro. Herman Herst wrote in to advise us that this was not so, and his letter was printed in the June 1982 MASONIC PHILATELIST. Brother Jenks has replied to Bro. Herman Herst, Jr, and we include Bro. Jenks' letter below:

The Masonic Philatelist

13 October 82

Dear Sir & Brother:

Born on Washington's Birthday, 1922, and a descendant of Robert Morris, Signer, Declaration of Independence, I do share more than a passing interest regarding that letter which appeared in The Masonic Philatelist for June, 1982, effected by our learned Brother Herman Herst, Jr.

Enclosed, please note clipping from the Philadelphia Daily News, under date of 11 October 82. Said article states Betsy Ross' grandson, William Canby, made an address to the Historical Society of Pennsylvania on 14 March, 1870, in which Canby said Ross told him she had sewn the first Flag. A manuscript of this address reportedly exists.

Also, in 1925, a prominent Philadelphia family opened a safe and found a folded, five-point paper star and a note from Ross saying she had recently showed George Washington how to make the star. She and George Washington had actually met to talk about Flags. Too, let us not lose sight of the fact Bro. Washington did attend Christ Church (pew #58) regularly, just around the corner from the Betsy Ross House on Arch St., in company with Ben Franklin and other Signers. With all due respect to Bro. Herst, I cannot go along with his thought such as this was "hokum."

Fraternally,

Richard Morris Jenks

Betsy Ross: not a myth

Author: Betsy Did Sew Flag

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Author Robert Morris says the story of Betsy Ross and the flag, a story "cherished" by schoolchildren for years, is being unjustly disputed.

Morris, 77, a retired yarn salesman and author of the new book, "The Truth About the Betsy Ross Story," admitted he first thought the legend to be "a myth."

Morris addressed the North American Vexillological Association, a flag research group on Saturday, and said that five years of research for his book convinced him Ross really did fashion the first American flag.

Morris, who lives near Atlantic City, cited a manuscript of an address given by Ross' grandson, William Canby, to the Historical Society of Pennsylvania on March 14, 1870, in which Canby said Ross told him she had sewn the first flag.

And, Morris said, in 1925, the Weatherill family — prominent in Philadelphia in the 1800s — opened a safe and found a folded, five-point paper star and a note from Ross saying she had recently showed George Washington how to make the star.

"George Washington had been there to talk about flags." said Morris.

Requirements for Information on Masonic Philately

It is advisable to confine the subject matter to a biographical sketch and source of Masonic affiliation. Stamps showing Masonic symbols should be mentioned only without further delineation since Masons can recognize them. Masonic cancellations on stamps and covers are very desirable items. We are most anxious to have this information illustrated for publication.

With the number of new issues that are flooding our hobby the amount of Masonic related material is beyond the research of our limited publication committee. If our members can research any such items and send in this information we will publish it with due credits.

The many issues pertaining to our Bicentennial, the omnibus issues of Great Britain's Royal Wedding, Silver Jubilee plus the dozens of other countries that are cashing in on our time and budgets should and must limit our collecting. A Masonic collection as described by the late Brother Sam Brooks can be much in order. The issuance of cachets is also being abused. It is not our position to dictate or deter anyone in collecting what he desires for his own collection. However a Masonic collection is a personal collection that he can exhibit at his own lodge or other lodges for the enjoyment and enlightenment of his brother members.

The Masonic Stamp Club of New York has tried to maintain a benign policy in limiting the number of cachets and quantity of each. The funds derived from this project are donated for Masonic benevolence.

The Freemason at Work

Sixth edition

The first Revised edition since published in 1976 — If you enjoy your masonry then this book will bring you a new delight in all that you see and hear in lodge.

When Harry Carr became secretary and editor of Quatuor Coronati Lodge, the answering of questions became a major part of his duties. In a style that has become a hallmark of all his masonic writing, he always answered a little more than the original questions. In response to hundreds of requests from all over the world, the answers he gave to questions during his twelve year office as editor of Quatuor Coronati Transactions have been collected together in one book. Only the best and most interesting subjects have been included; in all 201 questions and answers that arise among Brethren in the course of their work in the Lodge: hence the title

All are at an entertaining and interesting level on a fascinating range of subjects covering practically every aspect of Masonic ritual, procedure and custom, showing how they arose and developed throughout the centuries. Here are just a few of the subjects dealt with: Masonic ‘After-proceedings’ (procedure at the table) — The length of my Cable-tow — The family tree of the Craft, Royal Arch, Mark — The origin of Masonic Fire — the Origin of the Points of Fellowship — Squaring the Lodge — it proves a slip; how did these words arise? — Cowans and Intruders — The origin of collars and gauntlets.

About the Author

Harry Carr is one of the best known names in the world of Masonic scholarship. He is a Past Master of five English lodges and an Honorary Member of twenty, including Lodges and research Lodges in Paris (France), New York, Ohio, Connecticut, Illinois, Massachusetts, Texas, Washington, Oregon, British Columbia and New Zealand.

He was elected to full membership of the Quatuor Coronati Lodge, London, the Premier Lodge of Masonic Research, in 1953 and became Master in 1958. He has been Secretary of three English Lodges including, most notably, his twelve years (1961–1973) as Secretary of Quatuor Coronati Lodge and Editor of its Transactions, during which time its Correspondence Circle membership was more than tripled in recognised Masonic jurisdictions throughout the world.

In 1957 he served as 'Prestonian Lecturer' (Grand Lodge appoints only one brother each year); his subject was 'The Transition from Operative to Speculative Masonry'. Lecture duties took him all over England. Since then and in recent years especially, he has lectured to Masonic Lodges and Grand Lodges in Belgium, France, Germany, Israel, with extensive lecture tours in South Africa, Canada, the USA, Australia and New Zealand.

The American Lodge of Research
By Charles A. Banten

The American Lodge of Research was chartered in May 1931 by the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York and its first Master, M.:W.: Charles H. Johnson, likened its purpose to that of the explorer seeking to penetrate those areas of the universe where conditions were unknown. More than fifty years have passed, the small group who obtained the charter are gone but their successors number in hundreds, located all over the world. Although the lodge has published fourteen volumes of TRANSACTIONS and probed many unexplored areas of Masonic history, its trestleboard remains the same, for the deeper we penetrate the more we discover new unknown lands.

Two classes of membership are designated; Active and Corresponding. The Active Members are admitted by regular affiliation, are limited to 100 in number, and have the privilege of paying higher annual dues and serving as officers of the Lodge. The Corresponding Members are admitted by subscription and now number over 600, located throughout the world. All Members receive the publications of the Lodge including the TRANSACTIONS.

The TRANSACTIONS are renowned for distinguished appearance and typography and the Lodge has achieved an international reputation for the quality and authenticity of scholarship contained therein.

An outstanding activity of the Lodge, in addition to the publications, is to hold meetings on special occasions throughout New York State and occasionally, when invited, in other jurisdictions. Every locality has its own Masonic tradition and it is a rewarding experience for the brothers of the Lodge to share in these unique opportunities for Masonic intercourse.

The Lodge By-laws require three stated communications (March 29, October 29, and December 27) in New York City and they are held in Masonic Hall, 46 West 24th Street. All brothers of Lodges recognized by the Grand Lodge are invited to attend. Membership in The American Lodge of Research is not a prerequisite for attendance.

Any brother interested in becoming a member of The American Lodge of Research is invited to send a self-addressed envelopes (legal size with a 20¢ stamp attached) to the Secretary, Box 210 Masonic Hall, 46 West 24th Street, New York, New York 10010 and full membership information will be sent by return mail.
